The finding of the remains in the cellar, the traces of poison in them—an unusual poison which CRIPPEN was proved to have purchased—and the part of a night garment, corresponding to those used by CRIPPEN, in which the remains were wrapped were terrible facts which CRIPPEN could not explain away. On this evidence the case for the prosecution substantially rested, and no reasonable person can consider the jury unjustified, with these facts before them, in returning the verdict they did. Mr. Hauson, in outlining the case, informed his Worship that Mak Kun, a witness in the case in which Wong Tsz Kin and two others were charged with conspiracy to murder, lived in a Chinese Club. He was visited one morning by the two defendants, who called him into the street and told him he had better go away and not give evidence in the conspiracy case. If he agreed they would pay him so much money down, and so much when the bost was leaving. He was to go sway by an evening boat, but before it started he called at the Central Police Station and notified the police. Then he went to his Club, accompanied by two Chinese detootive-sergeants. There he met the defendants who were to pay him a certain sum of money. When the money was counted out—it was all in twenty cent pieces the police entered the room and asked, What is all this money counting for?" Defendants did not reply, but the witness said, "This money the defendants have given me to go away and not be a witness in the Wong Tez Kin

SIR HENRY MAY.

A CIVIL SERVICE ADDRESS.

An interesting coremony took place in the Legislative Council Chamber yesterday afterneon when the great majority of the Colony's Civil Servants assembled to bid farewell to the departing Colonial Secretary and to present an address. The address was bound in blackwood covers on the corners of which were worked silver dragons, while the Colony's coat of arms, also in silver workmanship, was in the centre of the front cover of the book.

The Hen. Mr. W. REES DAVIES, K. C. (Attorney-General), in making the presentation on behalf of his brother officials, said:

Bir, In the winter of the year, which has just closed, you completed the 29th year of your service in the Government of the Colony, to which on the 24th November, 1881, you were appointed as Codet. For the first ten years of that period you served in the Registrar-General's Office, the Treasury and the Secretarist, and you were substantively appointed Assistant Colonial Secretary on the 1st January, 1891. This post you held for two years: then for nine years you were Captain Superintendent of Police, and since the 23rd April, 1902, you have been our Colonial Secretary, and on four occasions during the last seven years you have administered the Government of Hongkong. Both as Colonial Secretary and as Administrator your work has brought you into close touch with every Department of this Government : and we, your collesgues and subordinates, who have been associated with you, in a few cases for a period almost coincident with that of your own service, and in many instances for the whole of our own official career, ask your permission now that your long public address to Sir Henry May. and honourable connection with the Hongkong Civil Service is to be terminated by your promotion to be Governor of Fiji and High Commissioner for the Western Pacific to present to you this address as a mark of our admiration and respect.

" Many of us can recall the calm courage, with which in 1894 you f ced the plague, a disease of evil repute to us all from our earliest schooldays, and the unyielding determination, with which, as a member of the Permanent Committee of the Sanitary Board, you prosecuted all the measures, which the crisis demanded. The order of the Companiouship of Saint Michael and Saint George, bestowed on you in the following year was a fitting recognition of your plague and the suppression of the serious strike 1895 as a protest against new lodging-house

"The zeal, with which, as Captain Superintendent of Police, you devoted yourself to the multiferious duties of your department was no less conspicuous than the powers you subsequently brought to bear on performing the widely different duties of Colonial Secretary. Whatever post you have filled, the proverbial versatility of your race has enabled you to fill it with conspicuous success and you have through all followed the path of duty regardless of criticism and misconstruction.

"We recognise your single-minded devotion to the interests of this Colony and your unflagging energy in its service. We admire your breadth of view, foresight and pertinacity: while from your attention to detail and your painstaking accuracy we may learn that we take no interest in what is small, we shall take a false interest in what is secures for us the support and the sympathy of

We wish you, Lady May, and your family all happiness, health and prosperity in your new sphere of life : and finally we beg you to believe that it is with feelings of the deepest regret that we take leave of you and that your memory will long be cherished in the service, in which the whole of your official life has hitherto been spent." Hongkong, 20th January, 1911 Sir HENRY MAY, in reply, said-Gentlemen, I beg you to accept my most grateful thanks for the address you have presented me with, and for the very handsome cover in which it is enclosed. One of the things that makes it hard for me to leave Hongkong is the necessity to sever my connection with men with whom I have been united by the ties of comradeship, and by the sympathy which springs from close associations in work. In whatever success has attended my efforts I have swed very much to the loyal co-operation and assistance I have always had from all of you. I entertain the greatest admiration and respect for the Hongkong Civil Service of which I have been proud to be a member for so long. I carry away with me nothing but pleasant recollections of our service together, and now in taking leave of you I wish one and all of you every success in the future. ADDRESS FROM THE JUDGES.

The following address has been presented by he Judges of H.M.'s Supreme Court :-To Sir Francis Heney May, K.C.M.G., Governor Designate of Fiji.

"His Majesty's Judges desire to associate themselves with the rest of the Community in congratulating you on the bonour which His Majesty has been pleased to confer you in appointing you Governor of Fiji. "On four occasions it has been the duty of the Judges to administer to you the Oath of Office on your temporary assumption of the Admini- and it is particularly requested that the stration of the Government of this Colony; names may be sent in at once, as the necessary they have therefore claimed the privilege of specially offering their congratulations now that that Oath is to be in due course administered to you on permanent appointment to the High Office of Governor.

"In sending you to work in the benign climate. of Fiji, Official Fate has not used her shears to sever the ties of family, as she does to so many of us in the Service; and we therefore take this opportunity of offering to Lady May and her daughters both a pleasannt journey to, and a happy life in, their new home.

procedure you have adopted in this case is unique in the history of this Colony, and I therefore highly appreciate the compliment thus paid me. This is the first occasion on which I have appeared before full Court to have judgment passed upon me, and I am very proud that that judgment has been so favourable. To the son of a former Lord Chief Justice the address Your Honours have presented me with is peculiarly welcome. I thank Your Honours most cordially for your good-will.

The "At Home" at Government House last night to bid "good bye" to Sir Henry and Lady May was very largely attended. To. the great regret of all, Lady Lugard's indisposition did not admit of her being present, and the guests were received by H. E. the Governor Sir Henry and Lady May and the Misses May There was dancing until midnight. No botter evidence of the popularity of Sir Henry and Lady May could be furnished than the large and representative gathering which assembled last night to bid them good-bye on the eve of their departure for Fiji. Sir Henry and Lady May attend at the City Hall at 11.45 this morning to receive further testimonies of appreciation and of the good will of the community, and the reafter embark on the steamer Aldenham for Sidney ou route for Fiji.

A SCHOOL FOR THE PEAK.

On Friday, January 13th, a meeting was held in St. Paul's College to consider the desirability and possibility of starting a school on the Peak. After a discussion it was unanimously agreed that a school should be commenced, and the officers for the year were elected. The Bishop of Victoria was selected to be Chairman of the Committee, and kindly consented to fill the office, whilst Mr. Ernest, T. Williams and Mr. Gerald Tiedall were elected Honorary Secretary and men on the Executive Committee, and a number of ladies and gentlemen were named for the General Committee, which, however, has not yet been completed.

By the courtesy-of the Management of the Peak Hotel a convenient room adjacent to the Hotel has been selected for the first term of the school, which will commonde on February 1st, 1911. The hours will be 3.30 a.m. to 11.30 a.m. with a suitable break for recreation, and the terms will be ten dollars per month, payable in advance. A highly certificated Mistress has been engaged.

To commence with, the main feature of the school, will be Kindergarten work. As is now well knows, this system can be taught to the youngest children with great benefit, and withgreat. Your achievements have brought a new out any mental or physical strain whatever, as distinction upon this Service; and we acknow-, it is a system of organised play which allows haslong been the established system in Germany We offer you our respectful congratulations and in England it is now being made by the Education Committees the compulsory method of teaching children. The principles of Kindergarten work are also being applied to more advanced education, as it is recognised that learning is more readily assimilated when it is taught in a way which attracts and holds the interest of the scholar. It is, therefore, a matter of congratulation that a school is to be commenced on the Peak, where previously many children have not had the advantage of a school at all, and that its main feature is to be a Kindergarten. This will remove a disadvantage as compared with children at Home, where similar facilities are now generally taken advantage of.

A by no means unimportant point in allowing children to attend school for a short time daily is that it places them under an easy discipline which will make the somewhat severe discipline of regular school later less irksome. The Master of the Wei-hai-wei School in his recent report bears witness to the difficulty of dealing with children who have been too long without restraint under the somewhat slack discipline of the East. The attendance of children whilst still young at school similar to that to be established on the Peak should tend to counteract this evil tendency.

It is understood that the Committee hopes the present effort is but the preliminary step in what will ultimately 'evelop into a Kinder garten and High School with possibly arrangements for boarders. It is hoped that this serious effort will meet with the succes, it deserves, and the Hon. Secretary will be be glad to receive at 81. The Peak the names of any children who propose to join the first term at school from February 1st to May, inclusive. The school is for European children, forms and apparatus have to be made before the

SCOTCH WHISKY TRADE DEPRES.

The statistics of the Scotch whisky trade for the year disclosed the fact that the trade has been the worst for many years. The shrinkage in all departments has been severe. Production has declined 2,100,000 gallons, and the total production of 22,000,000 gallons is the lowest for sixteen years. Stocks have increased for the first time for many years by 1,600,000 gallons, and the stocks carried into the New Year will be 115,000,000 gallons, equal to six years' consumption.

NEW TAXATION IN MACAO.

Our Macao correspondent informs us that the Senado (Municipal Conneil) now has a deficit of $12,000, and that at a meeting held this week the President proposed that, towards covering this, a tax should be put upon private rickshas. The imposition of new taxes of any kind at the present time, our correspondent says, is a serious mistake, and can only serve to assist the exedus of the population which has recently been taking place. Instead of levying new taxes the Senado should go in for retrenchment, should see that all money collected goes into the Treasury, and should put the tax-gathering officials on fixed salaries instead of paying them a percentage on the money collected. If the Senado in seeking relief from its financial embarrassment would make a thorough investigation into the collection of licence fees for public rickshas, street stalls, and the hundred and one other things in respect of which fees are collected, and make the obvious reforms which such an investigation would reveal to be necessary it is highly probable, to say the least, that the Senado would quickly Suiter. ### SPORTING NOTES.

Three defeats in eight days, involving a drop from 100 per cent. to 50 per cent., has been the unfortunate experience of the K.O.Y.L.I, who until then held the best position in the Cricket League competition. Now they come second, following the R. E. and Departmentals, who lead with 66 per cent.

Kowloon had an easy win over Police on Saturday, but they are likely to have more difficulty to-day in disposing of the men from the county of broad acres. R. E. and Craigengower is another interesting match, and if the latter shape as well as they did last Saturday against the Yorkshires they should prevent the Steel. R.E. from improving their percentage.

The Football League was brought to a close

Speculation is rife on the forthcoming champiouship boxing match between Bill Lewis and Rod Stanton of Canada. The fight is to be of twenty-five rounds, each of three minutes duration, with a clean break. With two such capable exponents of the manly art there should be some excellent sport, but in my opinion the seasoned veteran, Bill Lewis, will win out. Many followers of the game, however, hold a different view, and are firm believers in the success of the little Canadiau, about whom so much has been said, and of whose accomplishments so little has been seen. Whatever the result, the fight will doubtless be a willing one, and a combat which the sporting public will not desire to miss.

Lewis is hard at work in his quarters at the Belle View Hotel, while Stanton keeps his trainers busy at the V.R.C., and both men should be fit and well when they enter the arens on Saturday next. In addition to this great fight there are other promising events on the programme. Private Richards of the K.O.Y.L.I. is matched against Gunner Arundel to fight the best of fifteen rounds, and if rumour speaks truly the gunner is to meet a tartar. However, he has proved that he knows how to take care of himself, and should not be found wanting in the forthcoming battle. The other events on the programme would also appear to be good things, and what is better, the prices of admission on this occasion are on the lower scale. This fact will doubtless influence followers of the sport in deciding to be present, and the gladiators should have the pleasure of fighting before a full house.

The regatta under the auspices of the Royal Hongkong Yacht Club to be held this afternoon promises to be very successful. There are at Europe, especially in Italy, Spain, and Berlin. least seven rowing events and two sailing races, and good entries have been obtained. The sailing races are for the One-Design and Handicap Classes. THE WRIGHT MEMORIAL FOR QUEEN'S COLLEGE.

Dr. Baleson Wright, former Head Master, of Queen's College, writing to Messrs. Lau Chu Pak and Ho-Kom-tong (Wright Memorial Committee), says, in a letter just received:

"It is not possible for me to express in appropriate language the gratitude I feel for the kind remembrance of me and my labour by the past and present boys of Queen's College, and the pleasure afforded me by the form in which that remembrance has found expression. I do not attempt to disguise the gratification I experience at the appreciation of my efforts as Head Master to promote the welfare and protect the interests of masters and boys.' After some extremely graceful and grateful references to Mrs. Bateson Wright and the wise advice which she on all occasions gave, Dr.

Wright resumes:-"Oh, good gracious! that I should live to be shook!" petula itly exclaimed Miss Cherry Pecksniff to her father. I on the contrary cry these, it never formed part of my fondest dreams that a bust would ever be made of myself. idea of a solid instead of a pictorial presentment of a late Head of Department is, I believe, a new departure and probably owes its conception to the fortuitous combination of two circumstancesthat I happened to be fortunate enough to hold my office for over a quarter of a century and to be the first Head Master of the new building, Queen's College. "Mr. Dealy in endeavouring to carry out your wishes has been so embitions as to select Mr. Bertram Mackennal to make the bust. Mr. Mackenual's time has been fully occupied throughout the summer in making designs for stamps and coins for His Majesty King George V. and in executing commissions for Queen Alexandra; but after a month's holiday he wrote to me at once. Hence you may have confidence in the excellence of the work and not blame Mr. Dealy for the delay. I sat in the studio at Marlborough Hill from 11 to 1 yesterday and was astonished to see with what skill the artist The Norddoutscher Lloyd str. Prins Walde- could in the short space of two hours achieve a remarkable life-size likeness in modelling clay. noon, and may be expected here on or about the I am to go again on Friday, so there is an evident determination to push on the work.

Was Almost Too Bad to Describe. Dreaded to Wash Because of Pain. Spent Pounds on Treatments which failed to Cure. After 5 Long Years Tried Cuticura Ointment and Soap. They Cured Him.

thing. I used to dread to wash because of the I also went to the hospital for months, which did me no good. I spent pounds in different cintments and lotions which all failed to cure, so a friend at Paignton asked me if I over tried Cuticura Remedies and so persuaded me that I tried Cuticura Dintment, four boxes, and four cakes of Cuticura Soap, which proved to be the best things for me and completely cured me. After five long years, they cured me in about four months. 1 cannot praise them too highly." (Signed) Frank Revell, 47, East St., Newton Abbot, Devon., England, Jan. 3, 1910. "It appears to me especially appropriate that the communication of the generous intention of the old and new boys should be made to me over the signatures of your goodselves. I have a most lively and pleasant recollection of you both as scholars in the First Class in the early Eighties, when I was in a position to include my own name in the Time Table as a Class

Master at the Central School. "My wife joins me in kind regards, and we both solicit your kind services to convey to one and all of the contributors the expression of our deep and heartfelt thanks; and the assurance of our continued interest in the history and pride in the success of Queen's College, Hongkong."-Yellow Dragon.

THE CHINESE QUEUE IN BANGKOK.

The Bangkok Times of the 6th inst. says :--Practically every luk-chin in Bangkok and district has removed his queue, so that all who now wear that appendage here may be regarded as foreigners in the proper sense of the term. In addition it is estimated that nearly a thousand Chinese from China have had their queues out off in the last three weeks. The people who have done so are of the merchant class or clerks.

Debility, Nervous Exhaustion-

Certainly the absolute confidence of eminent doctors is evidence enough of the exceptional benefits imparted by Phosferine. Even doctors cannot do more to prove their confidence than by using Phosferine to remedy their own disorders. Could any proof be more definite, more convincing than the testimony of John Dodd, D.S.M., Medical Officer in the late South African War, who says: "After being shot through both lungs I was dangerously reduced, and I attribute it solely to Phosferine that I regained my usual health. I have proved the value of Phosferine in brain, nerve, and muscular exhaustion." This brilliant medical officer found Phosferine particularly serviceable for insufficiency of nerve force, and declares nothing was so suitable in combating fevers, chills, &c.

Not possible now

John Dodd, D.S.M. (late of the Medical Staff, 5th Imperial Yeomanny, 1st Brigade, South Africa), Ladysmith House, Witton-le-Wear, writes: -"I have had considerable experience in the use of your invaluable remedy Phosferine, and it has proved particularly serviceable where there exists insufficiency of nerve force. This condition, often due to primary weakness, lays the system open to influenza, colds, neuralgia, rheumatism, indigestion, severs, and in remedying this predisposition I have found nothing so suitable as your preparation. Phosferine invariably goes to the root of the mischief direct. The certainty of its action is moreover in estimable feature. In debility and kindred ailments, caused by a reduced system, it has unprecedented power, and in my own case I can bear evidence to its exceptional value, and am indeed greatly indebted to its wonderful restorative properties. During the late war in South Africa, I was shot through both lungs and pericardium and that reduced me most dangerously; after taking Phosferine for about two months it brought me back to my usual health. I attribute this solely to the use of Phosferine. I have advised Phosferine in several cases, and proved its value in brain, nerve, and muscular exhaustion."-March 11, 1910.

SCIENTIFIC MISCELLANY.

LIPE IN INTERPLANETARY SPACE. The old idea that life may have been spread from world to world by dust particles traversing space is being again discussed. Prof. Svante Arrhenius, the Swedish physicist, finds that spontaneous generation is probably no longer possible on the earth, but conceives that it may take place on some globe having more favourable physical and chemical conditions. From that globe life may be scattered to other. habitable bodies on particles driven by the presure of light. In recent experiments with baceria, half of the dried organisms perished within three days at ordinary temperature, but others showed no impairment of vitality after four months at the temperature of liquid air, and it was concluded that the cold of space might so diminish vital activity that life may be sustained for millions of years. An objection to this theory, by M. Paul Becquerel, is that the ultraviolet rays from incandescent stars are constantly sterilizing space. Even extreme dryness and

DANGER IN ANAESTHETICS.

The rapid increase in mortality from angesthetics is giving much concern in England, where there were 5 such deaths in 1866, over 100 in 1900, not less than 155 in 1905, and 235 in 1909. The experience in the United States is probably quite as startling. More than half of the deaths seem to be due to chloroform, and the death-rate is doubtless much increased by the free use of anaesthetics by unqualified persons. THE RADIUM CURE.

The Government radium baths at Josephimstal have been pronounced highly successful by the Department of Commerce at Vienua. Of 209 patients treated with radioactive baths and drinking water at the experimental establishment, 169 derived benefit and only 40 were unaffected, marked improvement being shown in cases of rheumatism, uric acid poisoning, nervousness, neuralgia and certain skin diseases, while there was no effect on wasting disease and diseases of brain and spinal column. The results compared very favourably with those from electricity, mud baths, massage, etc. The action of radioactivity varies with the strength, and up to a certain point stimulates the cells, while at higher degree it paralyzes and disintegrates. Much further experiment is necessary to determine just how to get the best results. IRON FOR PLATINUM.

Hitherto only platinum wire has been satisfactorily sealed into the bases of the bulbs on a commercial scale, but Dr. Sand claims a method of sealing iron wire vacuum-tight into glass, and has made a successful demonstration of his process. The cost of iron for the lamp bulbs, if used in the place of platinum, would be very CONCRETE-C STING IN ROTARY MOULDS, Concrete tubes, posts, etc., are produced by centrifugal action at a factory in faxony. A steel skeleton may be used to give strength to the pipe, and this is inserted in a mould, with a suitable cement mixture, and this mould which is in two sections - is given 500 to 1,000 revolutions per minute for 10 to 15 minutes in a series of special machines. Asbestos fibre is introduced to prevent the separation of send, etc., from the concrete. The pipes formed are given uniform thickness by keeping the moulds in a horizontal position, and the shape may be varied by inclining the moulds. The centrifugal force moulds, presses and dries the plastic mass. ALPHIA RAYS.

A revolution in physics is recognized by high anthority, it is affirmed, by the award to Prof. Ernest Rutherford of the Barnard medal, which Columbia College bestows upon a leader in science once in five years. It is claimed that Prof. Rutherford's discoveries have demonstrated that all physical matter is the same in its ultimate constituents, that the differences between the so-called elements are differences of arrangement of the constituents, and that a continual passing into another. The Rontgen rays opened the way to the discovery of radioactivity and of a series of radioactive substances that pass into one another. Of the three kinds of radiation of these substances the alpha rays have been found by Rutherford to be positively electrified particles of helium, moving with speeds up to one-tenth the velocity of light; the beta rays are negatively electrified corpusoles, with velocities at times about equal to that, of light, and the gamma rays are unelectrified and not unlike Rontgen rays. The radiation of the particles much smaller than atoms, it is pointed out, is much like an escape of vitality while one element is changing to another.

The cephaloped molluses known as argonauts coally act as submersible power-beats, instead of spreading their membranous arms as sails, as they have been long fabled to do. The creature propels itself by ojecting water from its sighon. At the Naples Zoological Station, Signor Baglion has found that it does not always remain on the surface, as naturalists have supposed, but, by exhausting the air from its shell, it can sink and travel under water.

THE OPIUM TRADE.

The following Press communique was issued at Calentta on December 31st: -

"The complicated negotiations over the future of the opium trade, which have been proceeding at Peking during the last year, seem still to be some distance from a conclusion. On one phase of the question, however, the Government of India have decided to take immediate action.. It is intended to remove a grievance upon which China laid much stress and which appeared likely to interfere with the prospects of a satisfactory settlement of the outstanding differences between the British and the Chinese Governments. "When the original Agreement was signed provision was made for a progressive reduction of our Indian exports by 5,100 chests a year. This figure represented onetenth of the average China consumption, which was taken as roughly 51,000 chests, out of our total average exports of 67,000 chests, the balance of 16,000 chests being the normal export to Singapore and other consuming centres outside China. The programme of reduction has been sornpulously observed and will continue during 1911. Chine, however, has complained that her imports of Indian opium have not diminished in the same proportion as our reduced exports. The fact, of course, is that the extraordinarily high prices ruling in China have attracted opium which formerly found a market elsowhere, and ( him is thus failing to secure the full advent-age of India's sacrifices.

"Although this difficulty was clearly foreseen and pointed out to China before the original Agreement was concluded, the British Government have unhesitatingly offered to help China in any further steps that may be necessary to meet it, as part of a reasonable settlement of the general questions now under discussion. The only effective measure for the reduction of imports will clearly be to prohibit the admission into the Treaty ports of a large quantity of opium than is supposed to leave India for the China market in each year, i.e., 30,600 chests in 1911, and so on, before China can impose a direct restriction of this kind. However, she will have to obtain the consent of the Treaty Powers, and this will take time. Meanwhile, as an evilence of India's rendiness to co-opora'e, and in order to secure equitable treatment for our diminishing trade while it lasts, the Government have decided to issue special certificates for all opinm which, from the 1st January, 1911, onwards, leaves India under a declaration that it is destined f r consumption In China. The amount which will be thus. certified in 1911 will be 30,600 chests, though the total Calcutta sales and Malwa exports during the year will aggregate 46,600 chests A substitute for platinum in electric The exact procedure for marking the chests, and

But the introduction of the certificate procedure is intended to secure the earliest possible protection for India's legitimate trade" and to reduce the risk of future complications in a situation of considerable difficulty "-

THE RIFLE IN MODERN WAR.

Earl Roberts, presiding recordly at the an qual general meeting of the Preparatory School Rifle Association, held at the Westminster Pal ace Hotel, said he knew from experience that when men were engaged in war if they could noe use a rifle they were perfectly useless. The trial of nerve on the men in action was nown, days almost more than he could express. It was far more severe than in the old days when h entered the Army. Then officers, non-commissioned officers, and men were in close touch, and it gave them, not perhaps courage, but a feeling of support, but now men were necessarily separated because of the long-range magazine rifles. Many of the men who volunteered for service in South Africa were perfectly uselese. He know some who had never shot with a rifle, and it was for that reason that he determined to point out to the country what an absurdity it was for men to come forward out of patriotism and become a dancer and not a help. We suffered losses and anxiety in South Africa because men were sent out who had no idea how to behave themselves as soldiers. The mere teaching boys to shoot and use a rifle gave them pleasure, intelligence, and discipline, which were valuable in every way. He hoped that more schools would support the Association. He regarded it as the bounden duty of every man to be able to defend his country. For the large majority of men the one arm was the rifle. To a commander with a long line of communication the great anxiety was to keep the line intact in order to ensure his supplies. He himself in evolution or change is in progress, one element South Africa frequently had his long lines of communication broken, chiefly because the men guarding them were unable to do their duty as soldiers. It was a great anxiety to him, being responsible for the lives of thirty to forty thousand men; therefore, he was very keen on the necessity of teaching men kill in shooting with the rifle. The Rev. E. L. Browne moved, and Lord Cheylesmore recorded, a vote of thanks to Lord Roberts.

OCEANISAFETY. MODERN STRAMSHIPS AND THE SCIENCE

OF STABILITY.

The inquiry into the mystery surrounding the fate of the Waratah will doubtless have the effect of causing some amount of nervousness. on the part of those who have to undertake long journeys by sea, eays the London Daily Graphic. Stability is an easily understandable term; it. may be taken to mean the ability of the vessel to remain in an approximate'y vertical position in spite of the violent buffeting of wind and waves. "Recovery powers" also is a phrase which needs little explanation, for it describes the ability of a ship to return quickly to a normal-position after having been heeled over by a gust of wind or an extra heavy wave. Everyone knows the feeling in rough weather when a vessel is rolling badly, that if she heels over a little more it must be impossible for her to right herself, and what the average reader wishes to know is to what extent a vessel can safely heel-in other words, what is the limit of her recovering power. This, however, is a point that cannot be settled on general lines, since the stability of ships depends not only upon individual design, but upon the character of the cargo of each vessel, and the method in which it is leaded.

If the cargo is to be one of human beings, the problem before the designer is comparatively simple, for he has only to allow such a margin of safety that, with all the passengers sheltering from a gale on the lee side at the highest portion of the ship above the water line-that is to say, under the worst possible conditionsthe vessel shall still be stable. This naturally nece sitates the provision of a wide margin, especially on a large vessel such as a modern Atlantic liner, which at certain seasons of the year may carry a full load and at others perhaps only half its complement of passengers. A vessel must have the combination of great recovering power and comfortable riding, but, unfortunately, these are two opposed virtues, for if a vessel has the maximum recovering power that can possibly provided, she will ride uncasily, owing to the rapidity and jerkiness with which she will endeavour to return to her normal

An appearance of top-heaviness, such as characterises many a modern boat, does not necessarily indicate that the vessel is of faulty and dangerous design.

HIGH DECKS. That appearance is caused rolely by the desire of passengers to live during their short stay on the boat as high above the water line as their means permit, and this natural tendency has brought about a type of of ressel having a series of superimposed decks, a style of construction which must necessarily lend an air of instability to the boat in the eyes of the unitiated.

The real fact of the matter, however, is that it is as easy to provide for a wide range of stability in a vessel having many decks as in a boat having but one This is simply a question of design, and, indeed, the tall sides or high freeboard, of the liner make it the safest of all vessels, so that the "top-heavy" appearance may be a virtue instead of the fault that it seems at first sight. . The stability of any ressel depends upon its metacentric height; that is to say, the relative positions of its metacentre and its centre of gravity. The metacentre is a term in physics, indicating that point in a floating body in which when the body is disturbed from its normal position, the vertical line passing through the centre of gravity of the fluid displaced (regarded as still filling the space occupied by the body) meets the line which passes through the centres of gravity of fluid and body when the latter is at rest.

ROLLING IN BAD WEATHER. It is a simple law that for a vessel to float with stability the metacentre must be above the centre of gravity and upon the precise relation of the positions of these two points to each other and to the ship itself the stat ity and comfort of the vessel d pends. The height of the one point above the other directly determines the power of the vessel to return to the vertical, and the safest and mes' comfortable ship is that in which this relation has been most accurately estimated for average requirements.

OPORTO

The great recovering powers and stability of modern well-designed ships is illustrated by the fact that as long aco as 1893, in a voyage undertaken just before Christmas, H.M.S. Resolution struck bad weather in the Pay of Hiscay and a roll of 4) degrees was recorded, while she was lying-to. The incident was illustrated in the Daily Graphic of December 26th, 1893, from sketches supplied by an officer on the ve-sel, and her adventurous trip was reported by a correspondent in the same issue. The incident is worthy of being recalled at the present moment, when it is our purpose to emphasise the ersential safety of modern vessels.

Local Government Board for Ireland.

The body-building power of Bovril proved to be equal to from 10 to 20 times the weight of the Bovril taken.

"The results of the experiments conducted at "the request of the Local Government Board for "Ireland during the past year, in the School of "Physiology, Trinity College, Dublin, as to the "nutritive value of Bovril, and communicated to "the British Association at Sheffield ("Times" "report, September 3rd), have created considerable "interest amongst the Medical Profession.

"In order to secure a decisive result, the tests "were carried out on dogs because, owing to the "easier control of the diet and the absence of "disturbing influences, mental and physical, much "more exact results can be obtained on animals "than on human beings. The dogs were first "brought to a constant weight on dried dog "biscuit mixed with known quantities of water. "Bovril-from 21 to 71 grammes-was then added "to the food, with the result that the weight of "the snimals went up as much as 50 to 100

"grammes, or, in round numbers, 10 to 20 times "the weight of the Bovril given. "Afterwards Boyrii was discontinued, and the "animals fell back to the offginal-weight. Com-"pared with the effect of hard-boiled white of egg. "it was found that from 8 to 10 times as much "by weight of the latter had to be given to obtain "the same increase in weight, or, taking the dried "organic solids in the two foods, from 21 to 4 times "as much egg-white had to be given to obtain the "Boyril effect.

"In several of the experiments there was a retention of reserve nitrogen, and in all an increased "ntilisation of other foods."

It was therefore concluded that Bovril had both "a direct and an indirect nutritive value, the latter "by causing a more complete digestion and absorp-"tion of the other food given."

Indigestion and Catarrh.

40 Kentish Road, Handsworth, Birmingham. Dear Sirs,-It is now about five years since Angier's Emulsion was recommended to me by a doctor, and I have found it invaluable for indigestion and stomach catarrh, as well as for toning up the system. I was very much run down when I first took it, but improved immediately, and gained in weight 15 lb. in twelve weeks. I have recommended the Emulsion to several of my friends for various complaints, with good results. It proved especially good for a friend who suffers from inflammation of the bowels, who was completely cured, and has been at work (Signed) F. THOMPSON. regularly ever since.

HEALING AND STRENGTHENING.

Angier's Emulsion soothes the mucous membrane of the stomach and intestines, arrests fermentation, checks bacterial growth, and promotes normal, healthy action of the bowels. It is a splendid tonic to appetite and digestion and it builds up health and strength. Doctors prescribe it for chronic indigestion, nervous dyspepsia, stomach and intestinal catarrh, chronic diarrhoa, etc. It has cured many obscure cases after other remedies had failed. Angier's Emulsion is also invaluable for the relief and cure of coughs and lung affections.

CHAPTER III.

A NEST OF SINGING BIBDS. While meditatively sauntering along, Merton was suddenly called to his senses by the harsh cry of some night bird, and looking about him he noticed that what little of the path he could see was altogether unfamiliar to

Somewhat startled at this discovery and partion'ariy at his own heedlessness, he turned and retraced his steps; but, as night had aiready fallen and the moon had not risen high enough to afford him much light, he soon became hopelessly involved in lanes and by-paths all of which seemed remarkably alike one another. Recognising and fatility of trying to find the way by which he had come, he boldly strack out towards the north, following a lane which appeared to run in the right direction.

He had walked about a mile when the road took a sharp curve to the left and sloping downward at a sleep gradoent merged into two others.

of these roads he should take, when he heard a was quickly supprested. pattering of sandals behind him. Looking round, he saw a gaily-dressed little mousitée afoot, approaching with a lighted paper lantern rustling, and suddenly-amidst a twanging and dangling from the end of a bamboo cane which she held in her hand.

Raising his hat, he bowed and with much sesticulation and "Pidgin-English" asked the way to the Settlement.

The maiden smiled and made obeisance. Then to the Eastward.

"Long way!" the said with a look of serious commiseration; vaguely showing with a sweep of her shapely arm that he would have to retrace his stops to the top of the hill and follow its woody undulations for a considerable distance to the northward.

Merton looked grave and perplexed, and she regarded him wistfully. "Yes, long way," he answered absently, contemplating in a most doleful manner the gloomy prospect before him. "No can," she at length said, involuntatily shuddering with childish aws as she regarded those dark woodlands which to her simple mind were evidently full of ghostly terrors.

"No, no can," he rejuctantly admitted, mistrusting his own ability to find his way back to the Settlement. Then looking down into her pretty round face he asked as best he could if there was any hotel thereabouts. She did not at first understand him, but he made a dumb show of eating and sleeping pointing to his mouth and pillowing his head upon his hand. "Ah!" she exclaimed with lively comprehension, "Yadows, yadowa! No have got." Then noticing his look of disappointment, she smiled and with a graceful bow motioned him

Naturally he was concy, he did likewise, leaving his shoes beside hers. Then they passed through a cartained doorway and she ushered him into a large dimlylighted room at the further end of which he saw four bewitchingly pretty young ladies than in the fair " Lind of the Rising Sun." crouching round a small table. They were busily engaged in eating out of tiny bowls into able definess and celerity; but, as the foreigner ] entered, they rose and with one accord smiled and bowed, giving him hearty welcome with all their race.

Merton was returning their greeting and making unintelligible apologies for his intrusion, when his fair conductor draw a shoji, or moveable partition across the room, thus relieving both parties of their embarrassment and giving had already been placed for his comfort. privacy to their quest

Having setched some soft cushions for him to sit upon, as there was no chair upon the premises, this amiable little maiden kowtowed and silently hurried a vay. Immediately afterwards there arose on the other side of the soleen a tittering and whispering of soft voices.

As he sat himself upon the cushions which had been placed upon a floor that was highly polished and carpoted in places with ] fine white mats, he looked around him and was struck with the cleanliness of everything and out upon a small balcony overlooking the garden the excellent good taste displayed in arranging and herbour. Stretching himself upo 1 the few articles of furniture in the room and the simple organients with which it was decorated. The dainty pieces of tapestry and scroll-like pictures on the walls seemed to harmonize with the vari-coloured vases which stood here and there in the corners and against the windows, of the sea, when counds of music and merr ment hues. The only thing which spoiled the effect was the wooden partition which now divided

But Merton noticed that as they knell before kim there was just a shadow of a regainh smile hovering about their pretty places, as if they were acting a part which greatly amused them, and their amisbility made him enter into the spirit of the adventure with all the more sest.

Having a good appetite, and some knowledge of the art of manipulating chop-sticks, he did ample justice to the fare set before him, though he would have preferred fewer courses, and more substantial food than rice, fish, eggs and quail These, however, were served with pickled herbs, mashed radishes, sweet potatoss, and most savoury condiments, the drinkables consisting of tes and warm sake, while the fresh and fruit and the white hackwashi cakes and other aweetments which comprised the dessert were really delicious. Moreover, the quaint and pleasing manners of the fair demoiselles who waited upon him gays an extra relish to the meal; and when he had partaken of all these good things, he pledged their health in sake and presented each with a cigarette, the acceptance of which entailed quite a delightful feremony, and rosy lips murmured graceful compliments which has fain would have understood and have returned toufold. Then the table was quickly oleared and drawn oside and the little maids glided from his presence, leaving him to smoke and muse in peace.

Languidly puffing clouds of bluish tobacco-smoke, which slowly eddied around him and wishing from the bottom of his heart that some good Samaritan would bring him a whisky and sods, he disported himself in true Oriental style upon the soft cushions which formed his seat, sitting with legs crossed and his feet tucked under him; and for a time all was strangely silent, save when a peal of merry laughter now and He was deliberating as to which again broke from another part of the house and

He was wondering what fun was screeching of biwas, kotos and samisensthe partition was drawn back, revealing to his astonished gaze a company of richly-dressed geisha girls. They wore elaborate coiffures embellished with combs and long kanzashi pina. Their faces were enamelled. she turned her comely face to the dark heights | their eyebrows pencilled and thin lips carmined; while their costumes were of brocaded silk, light blues and purples predominating, their sashes being of darker colours lined with amber and crimson satin and other gorgeous hues.

In spite of their transformation, Morton recognised in them the merry maids who had waited upon him, and standing in their midst twanging her guitar and smiling saucily was his Ittle friend. She had evidently been selected to open the performance, for, after they had made their bow, the music commenced and she began singing in a high falsette voice, her companions at intervals joining in a chorus.

It was a quaint song and probably a comic one, and no doubt the music was charming -a5 Morton applauded the artiste and appeared to be wistful expectation. highly delighted with the entertainment which was certainly refined, and the costumes artistic. The second item on the programme was a few notes on her guitar and then commenced sentimental ballad delivered with graceful gestures, and accompanied by a soft blending of Mertoo, inasmuch as, instead of the high falsetto discordant sounds which eventually ended with a jarring sereech which set Merton's vocalists, he heard a rich soprano voice having a teeth on edge. Nevertheless, he tostified his appreciation in every way and felt really grateful to them for their kind endeavours to amuse him.

At the conclusion of the performance he to follow her and went tripping away down the handed round his cigarette case, inviting hill, by the right-hand path, with her paper | these ladies to come and smoke with him. Merton alse kept his eyes rivetted upon her as he stood in the shadow by the window, an unseen spectator of that social gathering Being himself struck with her beauty, he was quick to notice the homage and attention paid to her by her companions who with one accord now began to coax her in a most winsome manner to do something which was evidently not altogether uppleasing to her, though she at first smilingly demurred. Then one of the girls ran indoors and fetching a very handsome-looking

At the conclusion of the song there was a spontaneous outbrust of applause which was received in a becomingly modest and selfdepreciative manuer; and as the fair artiste stood smiling sweetly upon her friends looking altogether lovable in her loveliness, they sprang up and lithely clung about her like jaamine about a white rose; while the ugly man move laway down to the water sedge and tucking up his nether ga-men's and kicking off his sindals waded out to where a small bright-coloured sampan was anchored. Lifting the anchor, he pushed the boat ashore and stood in the bows of her looking towards the merry party in the

She remained standing for a time. Then she waved her hard and sat dorn and the sampan glided onward over the moonlit waters.

All this time Merton had been standing unobserved near the window, and now, as the best was slowly rowed away and the gay mountées returned to the house, he stretched his limbs and went back to his bed.

"By Jove, she is beautiful!" he exclaimed with sudden fervour. Then trying to cheat himself into the belief that he was not infatuated with this mysterious damsel, he added in an offhand manner: "Some geisha girl, I expect."

Nevertheless, the geisha girl haunted him that good night; and at intervals he heard or fancied he heard her voice and the music of her samisen from over the calm waters, as though borne to him by a cool air which came in at the open window and with the somnolent sounds of the sea gradually lulled him into desper alumbers. > As your teeth are wanted to last -for years to comebegin now to use

However perfect your teeth may naturally be, they still require, and will well repay, the slight trouble and the short time you should daily give to their care.

The regular use of Calvert's Carbolic Tooth Powder ensures a complete antiseptic cleansing, helps the toothbrush to do its work easily, pleasantly, and thoroughly, and thus assists your own efforts towards keeping the teeth in the best possible condition.

REVIEWS.

Who's Who. London: A. & C. Black.

It is remarkable how this publication has become a part of our social and business life. "Who's Who," at first a luxury or a con. venience, has now become a necessity, and forms an excellent gift, but few of the wearers of these charming little stones realise what hardnowhere is the truth of this more apparent than in a newspaper office. The compendium grows more bulky with the passing years, and its is to seek them. Mr. Charles P. Clay, who formerly held a responsible position at the Mogok Ruby Mines, but is now engaged in mercantile pursuits in Mandalay, recently throw some instructive light reputation becomes enhanced. Accuracy and carefulness in compilation render the book an infallible guide and an undisputed auth ority. It is, as has already been described, on that point. "Often we had to work up to our thighs in water," said he. "The damp hot atmosphere a miner has to breathe is also most conducive to an indispensable piece of desk furniture.

Englishwoman's Year Book. London: A. & C. Black.

In these days of greater activities for women the necessity for such a publication is readily apparent. The Englishwoman's Year Book and Directory for 1911, which, by the way, is its thirtieth year of issue, affords information on the numerous subjects of interest to women. The first part of the work is devoted to education, the professions and social life, and the second part to philanthropic and social work, so that it will be seen that the Year Book must appeal to ladies whose scope of interest is not restricted to the domesticities. And what woman of to-day has such a limited outlook? The book is well worth the 2/6 at which it is

The Writers and Artists Your Book. London: A. & C. Black.

Whittaker's Almanack. London: Joseph Whittaker.

This is another book devised to meet the special needs of the age. It presents in a concise form all the information needed for intelligent citizenship, and its data has proved so reliable that Whittaker is accepted as an authority on any subject embracel in its 900 pages. The 1911 volume shows many changes in the official section, and a number of new features such as comprehensive tables of the monetary units of the world and of the weights and measures of the principal c untries, have been

HUMAN HAIR FROM KOREA

INCREASED TRAFFIC SINCE ANNEXATION BY

Since the annexation of Korea by Japan a Co., 84, Szechnen Road, Shanghai, 1 bottle large number of Koreans have cut off their topknots and many of them are bringing them across the Yalu River to sell at Antung. In consequence of this increased supply of human hair, we learn from the American Consul, Carleton Baker, in Antung, the price has fallen considerably. While the local price for the cheapest quality of Korean hair was formerly 20 cents (United States currency) per cunce, it has recently dropped to about 12 cents per ounce, while the best quality is now selling for about 20 cents. The price of Korean hair at Antung is generally higher than it is in Korea, owing to the Chinese import duty and its comparative scarcity. The Koreans, however, may evade the Chinese Customs duty by crossing the frontier b fore having their topknots cut-off.

A semi-official Japanese publication has recently stated that about 200,000 Koreans have amputated their topknots "in connection with the annexation." It further states that the stimulus thus given to the tonsorial art has been such that over ten barber shops have been opened in one small town in North Korea. If this "haircutting" epidemic continues to spread, there may be such a plut in the market that rate, puffs, switches, and other such prevalent devices may become so cheap that they may cease to be a distinguishing mark of the up-to-date woman.
